Katrina, It feels like my life is over right now, losing TWO of my youthful siblings. I thought we would all be old together, coming to each others houses for future Thanksgivings with our spouses and stuff. The family feels very teeny tiny now without you. It already felt small after Matt passed. I can't believe this is happening. I literally cannot believe it. I am so hurt, I just don't even know what to do. I am finding out much too young how awful life really is. Our songs together, our inside jokes, my visits at your Rally, sooooo many things are going through my heart like knives. I hope you are happy in heaven with Matt right now and I will see you two someday. I know you had a very hard couple of years since Matt died and you took it so so so incredibly hard, but you were doing so AMAZING and I just wish this car accident didn't have to happen to interrupt it all. It's just so shocking, I don't know what else to say. Your sister, your blood forever, Megan

We will always remember Katie. She had our hearts. When she would run by our house on the way from Grandma & Grandpa's, she would yell to me "Hi Merwin" in her young little voice. Sweet. Our thoughts and prayers are with the Ellis, Jennie & Family. Merwin & Carol
