Aunt Sadie used to phone on Sundays to let us know how her family was getting on. My husband Blair Thomson looked forward to hearing all her news and especially what was happening in the lives of his American cousins. He had very fond memories of meeting them all in America and shared these with his family, Gary, Fiona and Scott and myself. Its so sad to hear of Blair's passing, and trust you will remember the happy memories he shared with you all. Our thoughts are with you at this sad time Faith Thomson

My Mother's younger sister, my Aunt Sadie (Sarah Schoen) emigrated to the USA in 1947, marrying Uncle Art Schoen. Granny Blair, although she never saw her daughter or her family again, kept every photograph, sent by Aunt Sadie, on top of a dresser so that I grew up watching my American cousins, Maureen, Blair, Karen and Scott grow up through these photographs. Some time ago, about 30 years ago in fact, Cousin Blair phoned out of the blue to say he was in the Navy, stationed in Iceland and said he would be coming to Scotland and would like us to meet up. I live in the Highlands of Scotland in Kingussie. I was thrilled and went to meet him at the railway station. He had two colleagues with him but I had no difficulty in recognising him. He seemed to know me too and we ran to each other. We talked and talked as though we had always been in touch. Blair and his friends stayed overnight and we got on so well. I still have the souvenir plate he gave us. Aunt Sadie was 13 years old when my brother Blair was born and she chose the name 'Blair' for him so it was no surprise when cousin Blair was born that she chose that name for her first son. I have very fond memories of that occasion in Kingussie. That was the only time I met Blair and it made a lasting impression on me. I am just very sad to hear of his sudden death, We send our love and condolences to our American cousins and hope we can keep in touch. Love Morag, Jim and family

Holly and I first met Blair at Rum Runners on a pool league night. Through the years, he was very competitive, but always cordial. Blair liked to talk "smack" in a good way. We will miss his smile and positive attitude. Please accept our sincere condolences. Fred & Holly Dean
