Karen L. Brown

JUN 12, 1953 - APR 26, 2020

Karen Lee Brown of Largo, FL, died on the morning of April 26 in her home, surrounded by close family. She was 66. Karen is survived by her husband, Jerry Brown; two sons, Eric Brown of Pittsburgh, PA, and Dr. Jordan (Dr. Robyn) Brown of Lexington, KY; one granddaughter, Mona; stepsiblings Holly Avery and David Wolfe and her mother and stepfather, Jane and Norm Wolfe. She is preceded in death by her father, Wayne Jefferson Best.

Karen and Jerry were high school sweethearts and, together, led an adventurous life that took them from their hometown of Butler, PA, to Bremerhaven, Germany; Richmond and Columbus, IN; and, most recently, the Tampa Bay area of Florida. Karen, an avid reader, theater goer, cooking enthusiast, and supporter of the performing arts, found a natural fit for her interests in her work at Viewpoint Books of Columbus, IN, for many years, and previously in her work at other bookstores and as a choreographer for local dance productions. Her true passion, however, was her family, especially her granddaughter Mona, who will most remember her for her steadfast love and support, and for her caring and generous spirit.

Because of the Covid-19 pandemic a celebration of Karen's life will be held at a later date. Memorial contributions can be made to the ASPCA or the Musical Theater Guild of Butler, PA. Moss Feaster Funeral Home assisted the family with arrangements.

All of my memories of Karen have been nothing but wonderful. In high school, where I saw Karen I would see Jerry. You both were nothing but kind to me. Jerry, please remember, she has no pain now. Your pain will grow less as the days go by. Please take care of yourself, she would want that.

Jerry I am so sorry to hear of Karen's passing. She was the sweetest person I knew in school. The two of you were meant for each other. Again I am sorry for your loss Buddy. Your old friend Bernie Weber. God Bless.

Did not know Karen but created a relationship on face book . We were on opposite sides of the aisle on politics. I enjoyed her perspective and our little bantering . Would have liked to have met her in person she seemed like a sweet lady. Although she was from Butler I do not remember knowing her or her husband . My sincere condolences to the Brown family
