When I come to the end of the road
And the sun has set for me
I want no rites in a gloom-filled room
Why cry for a soul set free?

Miss me a little-but not too long
And not with your head bowed low
Remember the love that we once shared
Miss me-but let me go

For this is a journey that we all must take
And each must go alone.
It's all part of the Master's plan
A step on the road to home

When you are lonely and sick of heart
Go to the friends we know
And bury your sorrows in doing good deeds
Miss me but let me go.

I had the pleasure of meeting Nancy in Palm Harbor at our apartment complex. She and I were going through a lonely time in our lives... She would go to dinner with me and we would hang out on Saturday nights and order Chinese food. She played a pivotal road in my life because at the time being much younger I had no friends and was getting a divorce. She told me a little about her life and we were both sad at that time. I think people come into your life for a reason. Near the end of our friendship. I met my current husband and she was planning on moving closer to her son. For some reason she came into my mind today and I started to look on google. Just want to let whoever reads this to know that she saved me in a lot of ways. She became a great friend for a short time. So sad to learn this years later. She was a true friend and such a nice woman.
