I met Larry in 2006 at Picadilly where he transformed my knowledge on how to buy real estate. He reminded me a lot of my dad as he stressed integrity when dealing with people. I took a few of Larry's classes and he always told me to call him if I ever had a question. I am so sad to hear of Larry's passing. I have still to this day have the "Larry" Meeting on my Monday Calendar. Thank you, Larry, for all that you taught me. I am a better investor and a better person because of you. You are deeply missed already. Sincerely, Kristy Prioli (He knew me as Kristy Neuenschwander)

My husband worked with Larry when Larry was in Michigan in the pipe trades. He could come home and tell me stories about card playing and cheating but mostly how they distracted my husband to win! After we moved to FL, we had a chance to meet up with Larry again several times and he was always the gentleman to me and yet, would not let anyone be disrespectful and everyone knew it. I greatly admired that about him. He will be missed. Our deepest condolences for the family.

I want to take a moment to honor my grandpa. He was not only a remarkable businessman but also a profound influence in my life. I didn't know it yet, but when I was 19, he started to sew the seeds of entrepreneurship in me, and at first, I didn't fully understand that yet. I was fresh in the Army and didn't quite see it. However by 21, I was eager to learn everything he had to share with me. He would send me videos and podcasts to listen to, and articles and books to read. He taught me to embrace the beauty of life and nature and to always keep my eyes open for opportunities. His wisdom and love will forever be a part of me. Thank you, Grandpa, for everything. I will miss watching you smell the flowers and soaking up the sun and taking in the views of the ocean. I'll forever cherish the moments at Disney World we had and watching you be a kid again every time you had a Dole Whip in your hand and excitement in your eyes to share all the knowledge you could with me. I'll forever be grateful for the 2 weeks I got to stay with you and enjoy the peace and comfort you brought into my life. I love you grandpa.

I met Larry several years ago after listening to his great podcast for a couple of years, I came down from Ohio and took a few of his classes, which he put on so well, typical Larry , always trying to help out his fellow students He was a friend and a mentor, Always taking time to answer my call or text to offer his advice. And later in our relationship, he'd call on me to read over some new material that he wanted to put out. Larry loved to learn, and he always showed others what he learned I was sure saddened to hear of his passing but I know that he's in a better place , but there sure is an empty spot here on earth without him. I'll say a few prayers for my friend and may God Bless you my friend I'll sure miss you and my deepest condolences to his whole family

I met Larry when I came down from Ohio for a couple of his classes on real estate after listening to his podcast for a few years I instantly made friends with him and was fortunate enough to say he was more than a friend, he was my mentor also , giving me his advice anytime I would call on him, Larry ALWAYS took my calls or answered my texts Later he would contact me to review and get my take on some new class he was putting together. I was so shocked & saddened when I heard of his passing. I will always remember Larry and say a few prayers for him, I'm sure that he's in a better place, but he sure left an empty spot here for us, he was truly one of a kind and authentic as you'll ever find. My deepest condolences to his whole family God Bless you Larry 🙏
